

Lewis Leigh, Jr. is a lifelong resident of the western Fairfax-Loudoun area and a retired real estate attorney with family roots in both Counties dating back to the 1710s. He raised his family on a historic small farm in the heart of Centreville known as “Mount Gilead” before moving to Loudoun where he now resides in the Goose Creek Historic District. He has served as President and Board Member of the Fairfax and Loudoun County Historical Societies, the Friends of Thomas Balch Library, is a founder of the Sully Foundation, and has served as a past or present officer or board member on a number of local and national advisory and/or historical groups. Mr. Leigh is nationally recognized in the education, collection and preservation of the historic material culture of our Nation’s past and believes in a balance of historic preservation and respect of individual rights. Mr. Leigh is also serving his first term on the Committee and was also appointed by the Board in 2012.